

BRIEF OVERVIEW OF TRANSITIONAL LIVING SERVICES REVISED MARCH 2016

Transitional Living Services provide a multipurpose, systemic and integrated approach for youth and young adults to help in transitioning to a successful adulthood through coordinated permanency and transition planning. The provision of Transitional Living Services includes access to information about benefits, supports, and resources that affect both older youth in foster care and those who have aged out of foster care. Transitional Living Services apply to youth and young adult's ages 14 up to age 23 (depending on the program) and up to age 26 for continuous healthcare coverage.

Experiential Life Skills Training

Foster parents and other providers are required to train youth age 14 and older in life skills through practical activities such as meal preparation, nutrition education and cooking, use of public transportation when appropriate, financial literacy training such as money management, credit history, balancing a checkbook and performing basic household tasks. If a youth has a source of income the provider will assist the youth in establishing a savings account. In addition, foster parents and providers must connect youth and young adults to community resources such as post-secondary education; employment; and vocational/technical school opportunities. These life skills activities provided by the caregiver along with the receipt of PAL services should complement one another and are discussed and addressed in each core life skill area within the youth's plan of service and transition plan. http://www.dfps.state.tx.us/handbooks/CPS/Files/CPS_pg_x10000.asp#CPS_10111

Transition Planning/Permanency Planning for Older Youth

By participating in permanency planning meetings such as Permanency Conferences, Circles of Support or Transition Plan Meetings youth help in the development of a transition plan. The transition plan identifies services for each youth to accomplish goals to assist them in obtaining positive permanency or to transition successfully from foster care. The plan is attached to the youth's plan of service to ensure consistency of services. Identifying caring adults for youth and involving them in transition planning help to ensure personal and community connections are incorporated into the transition planning process. Transition planning continues to be conducted for those young adults in the Extended Foster Care program.
